We are going through many rapid changes in the use of pesticides. As these changes affect specific producers, we will be communicating. More than ever, it is extremely important to read the label.

Some of the changes coming in this month have registrations for Virginia only. Many of these labels state: "This labeling must be in the possession of the user at the time of application." Copies of the label will be available from your dealer.

It's hay harvest time. Quite a bit was put on the ground last week. Much hay is stored as low quality feed simply because the grower delayed harvest. The time to make high quality hay is now.

Don't neglect making a seeding of a summer annual for creep grazing. It will surely pay off in July, August and early September when these fescue pastures are brown and tough. I like pearl or Ga-hi millet because even if it turns dry, calves can eat it without danger from prussic acid.

Cut off a corner of the pasture for creep grazing.

Remember soybeans need to be treated well. Always plant in a weed-free seedbed at the right depth - one inch on May 15, increase to two inches in late planted beans, unless othrwise stated on the herbicide label.

How much seed is a frequent question. In May plant for 90,000 to 120,000 plants per acre final stand. In June plant for 130,000 160,000 and 160,000 - 200,000 after July 1. Do not exceed these quantities

Diet and Its Relationship to Disease

Numerous studies have been conducted which indicate that there is a strong relationship between diet and disease. Six of the ten leading causes of death in the United States are related to diet (heart disease, cancer, stroke, diabetes, arteriosclerosis and cirrhosis). One in every three patients of the average physician has a nutrition-related problem. Two-thirds of today's public health and chonic disease problems are related to nutrition.

Our diet is usually excessive in calories, sugar, salt, animal protein and fat, cholesterol, refined and processed foods, and often, alcohol. Although deficiency diseases are seldom seen in the United States, it is believed that nutritional imbalances caused by deficient or excessive food intake may contribute to, if not cause, several of the major health problems.

Apparently many people agree with this belief because a study conducted in 1974 showed that over 13 million

-- too many plants cause lodging and barren (without pods) plants. Check the planter in the field. The following number of seed are needed in each foot of row to equal 100,000 seed per acre: 36 inch rows - 6.88 seed per foot; 30 inch rows - 5.73 seed per foot; 24 inch rows - 4.58 seed per foot; 20 inch rows - 3.82 seed per foot; 18 inch rows - 3.44 seed per foot; 10 inch rows - 1.91 seed per foot; 7 inch rows - 1.34 seed per foot.

When planting consider the percent germination and allow for the difference under 100 percent.

Select the herbicide that will control weeds in your fields. This will probably mean changing herbicides to control different weeds in different fields.

Dual has label clearance this year on soybeans and is effective against nutgrass if that is your problem.

Remember one or two cultivations will also pay off even if you have good weed control - at least that's what Preston Reid, Extension Soybean Specialist, tells me.

Shoot for a good crop - prices are already in excess of $7.00 a bushel. Beans will be a good commodity to have this fall.

Long-Keeper is a new tomato variety. The seed company has some recommendations if it is used. Make the planting 3-4 weeks later in the season. Grow in wire cages or stake. You may harvest ripe, as well as green, fruit for storing at 55-65 degrees F. Long-Keepers are ripe and ready to slice for salads and sandwiches when their skin is golden orangy-red and the meat inside is red.

Americans spent over one billion dollars a year in the health-food stores. During this same period, Americans spend over $600 million on nutrition supplements (vitamins, minerals, etc.) Unfortunately, most of the money is wasted on unnecessary dietary supplements, some of which may actually be harmful to the person's health.

Since the early 1900's, there has been little change in the number of calories consumed by the average American. However, during this same period of time, there has been a steady decrease in the level of physical activity and because fewer calories are burned, more individuals become obese. Obesity is a complicated problem which affects 20% of all children and up to half of the American adult population. A person who is obese is more apt to develop cardiovascular disease, hypertension, atherosclerosis and diabetes.

Snack foods have increased in use and do contribute to the problem of obesity. The average American annually consumes 295 12-ounce soft drinks and eats 6½ pounds of potato chips. Most Americans

Information Concerning Periodical Cicada (Locust)

This is the year of the Periodical Cicada. Thirty-two Virginia counties can expect the emergency of this insect in 1979. This phenomena of nature is interesting to observe.

During the past week many calls have been made to the County Extension Office inquiring what to do, J. A. Smith, Extension Agent, reports.

These insects do no harm, except for the female when she begins the egg laying function. Her favorite trees are oak and hickory, but she will use apples and occasionally peaches. The female has a swordlike ovipositor for inserting eggs into twigs of trees and bushes. The ovipositor consists of two lateral blades; these blades excavate a cavity in the wood for the eggs. The female may deposit 400-600 eggs. The twig that is used for depositing the eggs will die. Extensive damage may occur on young apples - this includes crab apples that are used as an ornamental. Protect apple trees with at least weekly sprays of Sevin at the rate of 2 to 3 tablespoons of 50% WP per gallon of water.

The Periodical Cicada may be the northern species that emerges every 17 years or it may be the southern brood that emerges every 13 years. Both species are found in Virginia.

The nymphs emerge from the soil at night and crawl on a blade of grass, tree bush or post and transform into an adult. The red-bodied, cream-colored adult will slowly emerge from a split in the top of the nymphal skin. It may take more than one hour for the adult to emerge, harden its skin and look like a Cicada. By morning the young adult is ready and able to fly off and join the rest of the group. As many as 20,000 to 40,000 may emerge from the ground under one large tree.

Only the male Cicada sings, and then during the day. The males sing to attract females for mating. The male Cicadas have a thin membrane at the base of the abdomen that is vibrated like the top of a drum. The sound is made by moving the membrane in and out very rapidly.

It takes about six weeks for the eggs to hatch and the young nymphs drop to the ground and enter the soil through cracks on plant roots, grow, and again emerge in 13 to 17 years.

The affected branches will turn brown and die. These should be pruned and burned.

now consume 30% of their caloric intake from snack foods which cost over $2 billion yearly.

Sugar-containing snacks consumed frequently between meals also contributes to the increased number of dental cavities.

The sugars are quickly used by the bacteria on the surface of the teeth thus increasing the likelihood that the bacteria will stick to the teeth. This continutes to tooth decay.

At present dental cavities is one of the most widespread problems in America with 96%

? You Ask ?

AIR CONDITIONERS

Question: Is it possible to buy an air conditioner with too much cooling capacity for a room or house?

Answer: "Bigger is not always better," say home economists from Whirlpool Corporation. Too large an air conditioner can give a room or an entire house a cold, clammy feeling. Air conditioners dehumidify as well as cool the air, so a unit with too much cooling capacity for an area will cool the air quickly without staying on long enough to dehumidify it.

Question: Do I need to clean the filter in my air conditioner?

Answer: Yes. A dirty filter impedes air flow and causes the unit to operate less efficiently. Whirlpool room air conditioners feature washable filters and the company recommends that they be washed frequently.

MONEY SAVING TIP: Planting a few shade trees to screen the home from direct sunlight can help keep it cooler and reduce the energy used by your air conditioner.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Are You Allergic ?

If you've been annoyed by itchy eyes, sneezing, and a stuffy or runny nose, the source of the problem may be an allergy, not a cold.

Prime allergy time depends on where you live but it begins earlier than most people think. In the southernmost states, the blooming of poplar, cotton wood, cedar, and juniper ushers in the allergy season in January. By March, the greater part of the country has been affected.

The six most common allergens--the sources of allergic reactions--are orchard grass, timothy, Russian thistle, English plantain, and giant and dwarf ragweed.

When an allergen enters the body, it causes the cells and tissues of the allergic person to release antibodies. Normally, antibodies are good things; they help fight disease and germs. Unfortunately, some people have antibodies that fight "harmless" materials like pollen or house dust. The theory is that when this occurs, histamines and other substances are released.

Histamine, a powerful compound, is usually bound up in the tissue. When it is freed within a susceptible person, it may cause the unpleasant effects of an allergy: swelling, itching, difficult breathing and wheezing.

Doctors frequently prescribe orally administered antihistamines for allergy sufferers. These diminish nasal and sinus irritation and congestion. Chlor-Trimeton four milligram and eight milligram, which were previously sold only by prescription, are available, now, over the counter and are recommended by many pharmacists in tablet or syrup form.

Pollen concentration is most intense at the ground level in the morning and night, so if the "cold" you think you're suffering from seems worse when you get up and when you retire, it may be a clue that your problem is allergic rather than bacterial.

regarding the proposed Animal Control Ordinance and the air pollution problem from Armstrong Furniture plant.

After a lengthy discussion from council members and citizens, the Animal Control Ordinance was defeated.

Larry Belton, plant engineer, and Bruce Cowan, assistant plant manager at Armstrong Furniture Plant; and Bill Parks, Director of Air Pollution Control Board, Lynchburg, were present to discuss the air quality of the Appomattox County area.

Belton and Cowan explained the operation of the Armstrong plant and how they are trying to prevent air pollution.

Parks, of the Air Pollution Control Board, stated that Armstrong Furniture has air pollution equipment that is the very best that can be obtained.

There were questions from the audience regarding the noise problem created by Armstrong. Both Belton and Cowan agreed to investigate the problem and see just what could be done to correct any noise that would be disturbing to near-by neighbors.

In an effort to alleviate the traffic problem at the intersection of Route 460 and Road 131, council passed a resolution requesting the Department of Highway and Transportation to move the traffic signal light from this intersection and install it about one block east on Route 460 at the intersection of Road 1013, Moses Street.

It would be understood that if this relocation of the traffic signal did not alleviate the existing problem or created additional traffic problems, the traffic signal would be installed back at the intersection of 131 and 460.

T. E. Pittman, Resident Engineer, Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation, was present and agreed that this plan could help the situation and he will take it through the proper chanels for approval.

The board nixed the proposal because of the cost it felt the county would incur, and further demands on Britton's time. "If the state wants a pilot program why don't they put up the money for it?" Martin said. J. M. Cobb, Jr., Clover Hill board member said, "I think he's (Britton) already got a full-time job. You could create a lot of problems, too," he added, "by not helping the right people and helping the wrong people. Then it would come right back to the board."
